ABSTRACT

An absorbent article is provided for use in the Compliant sealing cuffs are perineal area of the body. pre-formed to extend outward from the dentral portion of the article. The cuffs may be formed by looping a strip of resilient highloft material covered with a porous material so as to form a compliant cuff which bears against the user's body in a comfortable manner. elastic member placed in tension so as to impart an arcuate shape to the article may be placed inside a cavity formed by the cuff. / The  $\phi$ uffs may be applied to an article having wings attached//to the central portion so as to form pockets for retaining the elasticized portions of the panty crotch. The proximal ends of the cuffs are disposed outward of the pockets and the distance between the pockets/is less than the width of the panty crotch so that the body faceable side of the article is placed in tension.

10

PPC-770